- b. In an effort to improve the availability of basic material for the NIS program, this division has taken steps to apprise FDB, the reading panels, and other special sources of the nature of the D/I program and its requirements.
- c. To develop uniformity in promotion policy, a more detailed review of promotion requests is being instituted at the division level.
- d. In spite of the postponement of Project 10.80h, the division has decided to continue developing its indexes of industrial equipment and military and items. These indexes will be published by the branches.

6. Problems

- a. D/I is currently working to improve the quantity and quality of its current support items. It is becoming increasingly evident that improved current support will entail significant time expenditures, both for preparation of the items and for coordination with CSS and other producing groups.
- b. The projected transfer of [REDACTED] from I/M to the D/I Staff has necessitated the reassignment of the Czechoslovak NIS from [REDACTED] to [REDACTED]. The I/M research program is being revised accordingly.
